Westerly May Have Labor Day Parade

Program Formed Giving List in Big Demonstration in 1895—

Frank Moracco Pays $28.80 for Assault—Death of James O'Sullivan—Mrs. E. E. Rogers of Norwich to Read Paper Before Historical Society—Sherwood Swan, of Preston, Taken Suddenly Ill.

A preliminary effort is being made for a big parade in Westerly on Labor Day and a general canvass of the town is being made to that end. This work is going along quietly for the present, those interested feeling the public pulse on the subject. If sufficient encouragement is received the matter will be publicly launched so that every resident of Westerly could co-operate and make the event the biggest kind of a big success. It is 21 years since that big Labor Day parade in Westerly, and it is planned to have the next parade the greatest ever in the town. In this connection, the order of procession of the Labor Day parade of Sept. 2, 1895, will be of interest, and to best it the local committee will have to do some, and then some more. If present plans prevail, however, the coming Labor Day parade will be the biggest demonstration of the kind ever seen in Westerly. Through the courtesy of R. J. Rooney, who preserved a copy of the original program, the order of procession of the parade of twenty-one years ago is here given:

Be Careful In Using Soap On Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious to the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain milled coconut oil, for it is pure and entirely harmless. It is very cheap, and beats the most expensive soap or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few minutes will last the whole family for months. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, shampoos thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it locates and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Frank Moracco was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third district court, Monday, accused of committing a violent assault upon Nicolio Comito. He was charged with an assault and the trouble started over a cigarette in Moracco's saloon. Moracco said he playfully knocked a cigarette from Comito's hand, just as Comito had done to him on previous occasions, and all in fun. Soon afterwards, he said, Comito called him the vilest of names and he returned the epithet, and struck Comito. Then Comito came at him with a pitcher, and made a movement as if to reach a revolver or a knife from his hip pocket. Moracco told the court that he then took out his pocket knife and brandished it back and forth to protect himself from Comito. He did not know whether he struck Comito with the knife or not, but that he acted on the defensive.

Chief Brown told the court that Co-mito received a cut on right forearm that required three stitches to close, and a slight cut on the tip of the nose. In response to a query from the judge, the chief said that he had known Moracco for several years and that he had never been under arrest before and had never given the police any trouble. Moracco was a witness for the state in the Debarbello shooting case and gave truthful testimony in the district and superior courts.

Rain Lessens Attendance at Loan Exhibition—Children Admitted Free, Find Much to Admire and Wonder at.

Rain Monday marred the opening of the loan exhibit given by the ladies of Calvary church at the home of the Misses Bielew. The out of town people expected could not come, but Colchester itself was well represented. The school children came in free before the exhibit opened, and they were particularly delighted with the old dresses and the tomahawk. A set of ivory chessmen took their fancy also. The Astor-Lenox seemed an old friend out of their fairy books. A tiny pitcher from Mexico, less than a quarter of an inch in height and only kept from blowing away by being pasted on a visiting card, seemed the thing to be most desired. They exclaimed over the daguerotypes. There is quite a good collection of these, almost entirely pictures of Colchester. It was when they were little, and the pleasure the children took in picking out someone they knew before looking at the name was enviable.
